The image contains a detailed map of the Pacific Ocean with various geographical markers and annotations. The map is part of a larger document that appears to be related to the U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM) or a similar federal agency. The map includes detailed contour lines, coastal lines, and various other geographical features, indicating it is used for mapping and boundary branches.

The top of the page includes a section titled "Chief, Mapping and Boundary Branch." This suggests that the document is an official map or report, possibly used for scientific, regulatory, or administrative purposes. The map's precision and detail suggest it is an official government publication, possibly used for resource management, environmental studies, or territorial claims.
